

There is a unique kind of comfort found in a home. It is the sanctuary where our most precious stories are shared. At Intermountain Furniture, we believe the heart of these stories usually happen on the sofa.

It's the quiet corner where after many restless nights you rock your precious newborn at 3:00 a.m. It's the perfect foundation for the makeshift fort that protects the fair maiden from the dragon. It is the front row seat to every family movie night, the place of refuge for your crying teenager after their first heartache, and the soft spot where your kids cuddle with Grandma where she reads their favorite book.

Since 1928, we've been committed to helping you design these cherished moments. We at Intermountain Furniture want to help you design these cherished memories with your family. We've built our legacy on the belief that furniture shouldn't just be a purchase; it should be a bedrock for your home. While the world has moved toward 'disposable' furniture, we've remained dedicated to the vanishing art of American craftsmanship—fashioning pieces designed to withstand the beautiful, messy test of time.

Our frames are built right here in the USA, using solid hardwoods to earn the title 'Strongest Frame in the Industry.' It's a build designed to handle the wear and tear of imaginative kids and the weight of a growing family. Inside, our precision spring suspension ensures uniform seating, so there's never a 'bad seat' in the house. Finally, our cushions—wrapped in high-density foam and non-collapsible fiber—are hand-stitched in durable fabrics that support Grandma's hips and resist sagging for decades.

We stand behind our work with a lifetime warranty on frames, suspension, and cushions, because we aren't just building a couch. We are building a heritage for your children, and a soft place for your family to land for generations to come.

We are honored to help you create your comfort.
